Product Name : Gama System eDoc

Product description: Gama System® eDocs™ is a complete system for electronic document management and archiving with different entry points — document sources (file system, XML, schema, e-mail, SharePoint, printer, scanner, ERP system) as interfaces to the outer world. Their main task is acquisition of documents and metadata as they are entering the system and their transfer to the Document Classification Subsystem. The classification subsystem puts the documents into the documentation system according to the defined rules and recognized document metadata. The system includes document generators for document creation (initially available for MS Word and MS Excel but the solution is open to all other generators as well).

Compelling differentiation: The system also consists of efficient desktop and web interface for system administration and classic document management with functionalities like searching documents by different criteria such as archive reorganization, creation of security rules for every object in the system and workflow definitions supporting user processes. The system satisfies high security requirements by using passwords, digital certificates and time stamping as well as user rights management. All documents and their metadata are stored in the Microsoft SQL Server relational database. Complete document revision history is ensured by the use of document and structure versioning, detailed logging and unique document marking.
